Paralysis Cases on Main Line Still High

Ten New Reports Show No Hope for Immediate Opening of Schools

MOST IN LOWER MERION

Prospects of a quick reopening of Main Line schools were given another serious blow this week with a total of ten new paralysis cases reported for Lower Merion, Radnor and the Borough of Narberth. As a result, none of the local Boards of Health have taken any sort of action leading to the lifting of the ban.

This week's crop of cases are divided as follows: Lower Merion, seven; Radnor, two; Narberth, one. Again Haverford Township reports no new cases. The total for the four municipalities to date is 55 cases, resulting in three deaths.

The Lower Merion cases are: Lillian Grove, 4, 46 Prospect avenue, Bryn Mawr, and her brother, Ralph, 5; Lucy Monari, 8, of Lancaster avenue, Bryn Mawr; William Price, 5, 451 Howe road, Merion; Joseph Pinto, 7, 152 School lane, West Manayunk; Anna Battoux, 3, 122 E. Spring avenue, Ardmore; Buddy Schwartz, 6, 214 Meeting House lane, Cynwyd.

In Radnor Township the new cases are James T. Funsten, 6, of Garrett avenue, Garrett Hill; George McQuade, 6, Bryn Mawr avenue, Bryn Mawr. In Narberth, Clarence Long, 5, of Forrest avenue, is ill.

More Lazy Playing Loses Charity Game

Scintillating Play of Davismen Fades With End of Season

By JOHN MULLIGAN
Bryn Mawr, 3; Narberth, 1.

Yes, fans, they are the correct figures; no, there isn't any mistake in the calculations.

Believe it or not, but Danny Hemmich's ball club finally defeated Gene Davis' Main Line League champs. The surprise was dished out to the public at the Playground last Saturday when the Davismen took on the Tribe in a game labeled as a charity affair to aid the injured Johnny Higfield, Choctaw outfielder.

For Bryn Mawr to share a win from the Borough certainly hasn't been one of the easiest things to accomplish this season. In fact, it is the first time that the home team has bowed to the visitors. Rated as one of the best clubs in the loop "on paper," the Indians never have proved to be all they are painted when opposing the brand new titleholder and it was Davis' employees who just about ruined every threat the Hemmichmen made to grab any pennant sugar.

This game was much different from the rest in that it meant nothing to our tossers but another victory had they gained it. That fact was borne out clearly by the attitude of the players, who did their chores in a happy-go-lucky manner and even the crowd failed to show much enthusiasm, even though it was one darn fine game and a fight every minute.

As pitching opponents, George Babb, Narberth blonde, and Speedball Jimmy Noblitt, offered a good brand of chucking for their respective nines, Big Bad Babb whiffing five and walking one, and Noblitt setting down seven and issuing four tickets to the initial stuffed pad.

Danny's boys went ahead in the eighth and managed to keep their heads above water thereafter with the help of three timely bingles and a wild pitch, which came at a time when it proved very damaging to the Narberth interests.

Carl Mooney opened with a single and reached second on the wild heave, finally edging around to third on an infield out. Eddie Flynn, of the numerous Flynn brothers, slammed a single, helping him in with the winning run, but Joey McCahan made it more comfortable with another single, which removed Flynn from the bases via the run route.

With Babb pitching one of the best games he has donated this season from the first to the fifth innings, Narberth took a one-run lead in its third, which appeared good enough

Time to Turn Back to E. S. T. Schedule

Turn back the hands of timepieces and give yourself an extra hour to stay up Saturday night or to sleep on Sunday morning.

Daylight saving ends this Sunday morning, September 25, at 2.00 o'clock, which immediately thereafter becomes 1.00 A. M. Or use your own system.

Churchgoers will do well to consult this week's notices. Commuters should look over the new timetables. Little confusion is anticipated, as the semi-annual time change now is an old story.

Big Rally Planned by Narberth P. T. A.

Date of Parents' Meeting Depends on Plans for School Opening

ALL PARENTS INVITED

Every father and mother in Narberth will have double cause for rejoicing when the health authorities lift the ban on the opening of the school. First, the safe resumption of the education of the children under competent supervision, and second, the starting again of the helpful and interesting activities of the Parent-Teachers' Association.

The first meeting of the new season, to be announced just as soon as the school opening date is known, and the entire faculty returns, will provide that necessary opportunity for fathers and mothers to meet their children's teachers and to establish a basis for mutual understanding, which can so well pave the way for a highly successful and happy school year for the boys and girls. And parents will have the opportunity to meet one another to exchange information and compare notes on the educational and other juvenile problems which confront them.

At the initial meeting, all teachers will be in attendance and it is hoped that there may be one hundred percent parent representation.

The Narberth P. T. A. has been one of the most successful branches in the State Organization. Only with a large membership attending the meetings regularly can the greatest benefit result for the community as a whole. Problems vital to every parent and educator will be discussed fully, frankly and freely at the regular meetings throughout the school year. The Executive Committee have plans well under way and further announcements will be forthcoming soon.

Several novel ideas will bring new interest and enthusiasm to the organization which can be so helpful in promoting the mutual interests of every citizen interested in juvenile and school affairs. Since every parent is eligible to full membership in the P. T. A., it is hoped that every child in the school may be represented by both father and mother in the forum which this organization has come to be.

Mulieres Entertained by Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller

The Mulieres of the Narberth Fire Company held a very successful party at the home of the President, Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, on Essex avenue, on Tuesday afternoon. There were sixty present. The regular meeting of the Mulieres will be held in Elm Hall on Monday, October 10 at 2 o'clock.

Plans for the dances to be held during the winter are going forward. The price for these dances for the season will be five dollars for two persons. There will be an orchestra and the dances are for old, young and medium aged. The first one will be held on October 28 and will be a masquerade. All those interested who wish more detailed information should get in touch with Mrs. Mueller or any member of the committee, of which Mrs. George Gilpin, Jr., is the chairman. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Charles Haist, Mrs. Charles E. Harnden, Mrs. G. C. Tyson and Mrs. John Burrell.

Card Party to Open Junior Club Season

Non-Members Welcome at Affair Which Starts Year's Activities

DUES MAY BE LOWERED

The Narberth Junior Community Club is ready to begin its season. On Thursday, September 29, at 8.30 P. M., a card party will be held at the home of Mrs. Conrad Albrecht, on Mapleshade road, under the joint auspices of the Membership and the Finance Committees, of which the chairmen are Mrs. Harold Griest and Miss Alberta Davis, respectively.

The party is given as an occasion for the members of last year to have an enjoyable get-together after the summer's lapse in activities, and also to afford an opportunity for them to introduce to one another such friends as they may think would be interested in joining the club for the current season. Naturally, everyone is welcome at the party, whether interested in ultimate membership or not, and anyone wishing to bring a group of one or two tables, will find it an excellent opportunity to entertain among pleasant people and surroundings. The charge is to be the minimum one of 50 cents per person, which will include prizes and refreshments.

The club program is being formulated by the chairman of programs, Miss Margaret Kent, in collaboration with the chairman of other committees, each of whom will have one program at least, in full charge during the season, presenting the entertainment and providing the refreshments.

A full schedule of social and welfare activities is planned for the coming year, and, of course, the State Convention of Juniors, meeting at Philadelphia in October, is commanding the interest of everyone right now. Miss Alberta Davis will represent the club as official delegate to this convention, and everyone is expected to attend at least one or more of the events the convention will offer, as the luncheons, teas and dinner parties are always very gala and worthwhile affairs.

Dues in the Junior Club are very probably to be lower this season, to meet the lower price schedules current and needed everywhere, so that there is no reason why the membership should not be very popular as an economical yet very pleasurable manner of relaxation for all.

Mrs. Ellsworth Clark, president of the Juniors, expects to return from her summer home in Stone Harbor in time to preside over the first regular meeting on October 6th, and will be more than pleased to welcome everyone who has been, or would be, a Junior.

Shull Adds New Line

The Shull Lumber Company have announced another expansion in the scope of their home-owners service built up at their Bala avenue address. The complete line of Moore's Paints is now available.

The addition of this full line supplements a growing stock of painters' supplies taken on in recent years. Together with their lumber, garden furniture and artists' supplies lines, the company has, with this new step, rounded out a thorough-going service to the eastern towns of the Main Line.

Bullfrogs of the Shortridge Estate to be Awakened by Crack of Police Pistols

"Quinn's Field" is to have a new instrument added to its orchestra.

In other words, the Shortridge Estate, as it is more correctly known, is to become the pistol range for the Lower Merion police force. Permission was granted this week by Parker S. Williams, owner of the property, for the use of the old quarry hole for that purpose.

The quarry hole, located just west of Wynnewood road, opposite Merion avenue, Narberth, is the focal point in what has become a much-used playground. The crack of pistols will blend with the singing of the hylas in the spring, the grunting of the bullfrogs and the yelling of the younger generation. Meadowlarks and red-wing blackbirds will no doubt jump

Narberth Woman Gives Birth to Boy in Taxi

A healthy eight-pound, eight-ounce baby boy was born to Mrs. Margaret Murphy, of Conway avenue, Narberth, late Tuesday evening on Railroad avenue, Bryn Mawr, a short distance from the Bryn Mawr Hospital, in a taxicab.

Dr. A. C. Messmer, Sharon road, Ardmore, who ushered the infant into the world, had commandeered a taxi for a last-minute trip to the hospital and on Lancaster avenue, in Ardmore, asked Motorcycles Patrolman John Sparks, of the Lower Merion police department, to keep traffic open to the destination.

The baby is the fourth child of Mrs. Murphy and her husband, who is employed at the Autocar Company, Ardmore. Mother and son are doing nicely.

Additional Quarters for Paralysis Cases

Bryn Mawr Hospital Opens New Isolation Ward in Old Laboratory Building

FUNDS BADLY NEEDED

An additional isolation ward, required by the number of infantile paralysis cases, was opened this week at Bryn Mawr Hospital. The new ward, with special nurses and physicians in attendance, is in the old laboratory building. Seven children are being cared for in the regular isolation ward, while four are being treated in the new ward.

Extra expense involved in the treatment of poliomyelitis cases and for investigations to try to determine its cause and to prevent its spread has resulted in funds being badly needed by the hospital, according to C. William Hare, managing director. Thus far only one per cent of the 125,000 persons who depend upon this hospital in emergencies, or 1200, have contributed anything to its maintenance, he said.

No organized campaign is being planned, but contributions of any amount will be appreciated. Meanwhile the hospital authorities will make every effort to eradicate this children's disease.

Even though economies to the extent of $74,832.72 were made last year, the hospital was obliged to borrow $29,078.70 to meet its obligations. For the income of the hospital decreased $32,785.27. The deficit for 1930 amounted to $71,126.19.

These figures are given for the first eight months of 1932, ending August 31:

Care of ill and injured, $264,507.67.
Income from patients, endowments and donations, $255,006.60.

Deficit for period, $9,501.07.

The continued inability of many patients to pay anything toward their care and the cost of treatment for patients and for prevention due to the infantile paralysis epidemic are certain to make this deficit increase at a rapid rate, Mr. Hare asserted, even though expenses have been cut in 1932 at the rate of $58,000 a year.

In addition to the children in the wards, 205 children have been given prevention treatments or tests, including:

Patients treated outside hospital with immunizing serum, 42; patients treated in hospital with immunizing serum, 53; patients treated in prophylactic clinic (parent to child serum), 43; patients admitted to observation ward for spinal puncture and diagnosis, 32; spinal puncture for diagnosis, 35.

Counties Title Will Probably be Liquidated

Hopes of a reorganization of the Counties Title and Trust Company, Ardmore, received a setback this week when plans for the immediate liquidation of the institution's affairs were revealed by the State Banking Department.

Officials of the bank, that was closed by the order of Dr. William D. Gordon, State Secretary of Banking, on July 26, had no statement to make.

Letters will be sent out to all creditors and depositors of the bank before next week, containing statements of claims according to the audit of the State Banking Department. Depositors and creditors will be asked in the letters to compare their figures of claims with those of the State Banking Department with a view to immediate settlement. A time limit of 60 days will be given the creditors and depositors to prove and adjust their claims.

At the time of the bank closing the latest statement, as of December 31, 1931, listed assets as $839,129.07.

Officers of the bank were Ledyard Heckscher, president; Henry B. Reinhardt, vice-president and acting treasurer; F. Von A. Caboen, Jr., secretary, and Albert Smith, assistant secretary and treasurer.

Main Line Orchestra to Open 11th Season

The plans for the season include four Sunday evening concerts at the Ardmore Theatre, with several extra concerts, including the Orchestra's appearance at Clothier Memorial Building, Swarthmore College, under the auspices of Swarthmore High School Faculty.

What is "Distinction"?

One hundred and seventy-two Main Line residents make the 1932-33 edition of "Who's Who."

Probably five thousand persons hereabouts are included in the Social register. (The last time we checked up the count was 1156 households.) About half of those included in "Who's Who" are of social prominence.

Gene Davis' Narberth baseball team wins another pennant in the Main Line League.

The Haverford Township police team, with Lower Merion second, won the Delaware County revolver marksmanship championship. Violent crime should not flourish in this vicinity.

Aviator Tony Little, of Overbrook, captured two more cups at a nearby air circus, making his total about fifty trophies.

Candidates for office from the Presidency down to Keeper of the Pound vie in declaring their degrees of wetness, which keeps the subjects of economic stability and taxation from becoming too annoying.

Quite a few local folk who took Prohibition Repeal into their own hands will spend some time as the guests of Warden Horn in Norristown.

Is your name in the telephone directory?

One of our greatest blessings is the right of mechanical activity, more commonly known as work. Deprived of that privilege we become moody and self-pitying (of course, with the exceptions of those who make of leisure almost a fetish) regardless of whether we are provided with necessities and some material comforts. For these reasons and others the Main Line Emergency Committee is to be commended for obtaining 358,695 hours of labor for the unemployed during the last twenty months. It isn't so much, spread around among the applicants; the wages are not high, but there is a thirty-cent-an-hour minimum set; the total payroll, $107,609, is scarcely that of one small factory in normal times. The organization's chief values lie in keeping hope alive from day to day, in preventing a total stagnation of part time activity, in helping to maintain the self-respect of a large number of families, in being a practical friend to the friendless. The community should co-operate, literally, in keeping up the good work.

SHREDS AND PATCHES

Listening

It was Seth Parker time on the radio, and Goodman Vagrant and Bonne Femme Vagante were listening to it, as is their frequent habit. Seth and his friends are singing through the hymn book, just as La Vagante once did, pretending that the dining room table was a piano, back in the ante-bellum days when they inhabited a meager home and lived quite happily on a very small income. The Southport neighbors of the Parkers, after the usual interruptions from Lizzie and Cephas, finally reached in their choral progress that hymn which has the refrain, "Is it well with my soul," and therefrom ensued a line of conversation and of thought which The Vagrant sees fit, in that arbitrary way he has with his readers, to chronicle here.

Talking

The Vagrant—"Do you suppose that people used to consider the literal meaning of the words of those old hymns which they liked to sing so much?"

La Vagante—"Very seldom! My grandmother sang in the Baptist and the Unitarian choirs solely because she liked to sing. I doubt if she worried about her soul when she was singing this one."

The Vagrant—"My grandmother, on the contrary, couldn't sing a note, yet she mentally followed the words of all of the hymn singing, and she did worry about her soul."

The conversation reached a dead-end there, one grandmother literally check-mating the other, and so naturally it branched off into a consideration of the important place which group singing once occupied in the social affairs of the American people, and of how that activity has diminished, in spite of its recrudescence on patriotic occasions during the war and immediately thereafter.

Singing

It was agreed that the phonograph and now the radio had raised the musical knowledge, tastes and standards of all Americans, but that, also, the mechanical reproduction of music had apparently diminished the desire to participate in the personal creation of it. That seemed to disclose a prevalent American trait which others had previously noted in connection with athletic games of all sorts. We Americans lionize proficiency, that exclusive and personal skill out of which we crown champions of all sorts—champion sprinters, champion egg-rollers, champion tree-sitters, and what-not. We have become so obsessed with that idea that we do not like to participate in any activity, except possibly golf, if we know that we cannot excel in it. That is why we are a nation fond of sports, but principally as spectators, and is also the reason, as it seems to The Vagrant, why more and more people are listening to good music and less and less are personally participating in the creation of it, either vocally or instrumentally. The Vagrant is not inclined to pull a long face over this conclusion, and decide that it is another positive indication that things are surely going to the dogs in his old age. For all he knows, this listening and spectating habit of modern Americans may indicate a maturing self-control and correct realization of average mediocrity, but he is inclined to suspect that something lively and attractive in the way of happy, self-forgetful spontaneity is on its way out.

Viviparous

Returning to the subject of snakes in the garden, The Vagrant can disclose that he looked up garter snakes in Dr. Ditmar's big snake book and found that they are viviparous and that normally there are as many as 30 young ones in a litter. The little ones crawl away and shift for themselves immediately after their birth, which, so far as the parents are concerned, is quite a casual event. Hence, it does not follow that because two young ones were disclosed and killed in her garden La Vagante need fear that the three-foot mother or the eighteen-inch father are necessarily thereabout. But Dr. Ditmar's revelation of such an abundance of brothers and sisters is a fact of which La Vagante will remain happily ignorant unless she should read this column, and that is a pursuit too trivial to comport with her normal habits.

Bryn Mawr Takes Game From Narberth Champs

for a conquest of the ancient enemy, but a first wild pitch charged to Babb allowed the invaders to even it up again in their sixth.

Harry Francis' one-bagger and a double by Walt MacGregor coming immediately after accounted for the home marker, but the Mawr counter was checked and double-checked after a play far more complicated and interesting. Mule Walker binged to left, was sacrificed to the keystone, and pulled into third later on the out-of-bounds throw by Marster George. Mooney walked, then Swede Carlsten popped to third, but the second of the same brand to the hot corner off Flynn's bat gummed up the works. The pellet was lofted high in back of Bob Gilfillan and dropped safely after he had spun in circles attempting to dope out a method of taking it. Walker jogged across with the tying point in the excitement.

Pitcher Babb carried the torch for the Narberth sticksmiths with two singles, while Flynn, with three, and Walker with one less, were the big guns in the Bryn Mawr triumph.

"A Complete, Dependable Dairy Service"

By ROBERT J. EDGAR

September 23.

The first day of autumn.

Set the clocks back to standard time.

"The hour 'tween daylight and darkness that is known as the children's hour." That precious extra hour of daylight, that has been the joy of gardeners since the adoption of daylight saving, will be no more—until next April. Back to standard time, daylight from 6 to 6, shortening days until Christmas, and then the lengthening days of another spring to come.

Time to bring indoors those poinsettias that have been growing outdoors. They will not stand a temperature of less than sixty degrees. A sunny window and careful watering may bring flowers for Christmas—and then again it might have been just as well to have dumped the pots last New Year's and depended on Santa Claus bringing fresh plants this year.

Narcissus poeticus ornatus flowers in April with other narcissi. The pheasant's eye, narcissus recurvus, flowers about three to four weeks later—tulip time. Both are sweetly fragrant, hardy and multiply rapidly. Like other narcissi they will stand considerable shade and are adapted to "naturalizing," which might be described as planting in large, irregular masses where they will be left undisturbed—by the lawn mower. The same may be said of any of the jonquils. All are graceful, fragrant, fine for cutting, but, strange to say, are not often seen. The big, ungainly, top-heavy, long trumpet narcissi, called daffodils, may be fine for forcing in pots, but along the edge of a shrub border they look like—With the poeticus ornatus may be planted mertensia virginica, or the jonquils may be used with mertensia. With the pheasant's eye may be planted phlox divaricata Laphami and tiarella cordifolia—the foam flower, with its pretty and persistent foliage, to cover the fading foliage of the bulbs and phlox. Phlox divaricata Laphami makes a fine companion for pink or yellow tulips.

And now that the robins and other birds are feeding on the ripening fruits of dogwood trees we are reminded that this is the time for berry bearing shrubs. From now on the birds, stay-at-homes and migrants, will feast on fruit and seeds provided by nature—and in some cases—provided by man. Why so many planters object to trees and shrubs that are attractive in flower foliage and fruit, and are at the same time food for native birds, is difficult to comprehend. The birds are not only interesting, beautiful and cheerful, but are vitally necessary if our trees and shrubs are to be kept free of insects. The birds also play a great part in sowing seeds of many plants that otherwise would become extinct—by way of the brush hook. How often we see a beautiful piece of woodland, a perfect bird sanctuary, cleared and cleaned to make way for field weeds. Blackberries, green briars, wild grape and Virginia creeper all have their place—not along the path where we cultivate the wild flowers—but off the path where they will hold the falling leaves, enrich the soil and make the trees healthy and happy. These so-called pests of the woodland are blessings for the birds, offering nesting sites and food, as well as protection from men and small animals who might disturb their nests or their young. The viburnums, including withered, nannyberry, arrowwood, hobble bush and maple-leaved viburnum are all sought by the birds. Chokeberries, red or black, are on the approved list. Elderberries, red or black, with Indian currant and snowberry are relished. Shadbush for summer food and spice bush for fall are on the list. All of the shrubby dogwoods are as popular as the tree form. These plants are all beautiful in flower, fruit and fall coloring, will all stand shade, which is found in many gardens, and are not particular as to soil.

And now—if we only had some rain—and some more rain—we could go ahead with our fall planting. A dry country, indeed.

THE FIRESIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Muschamp, who are at their summer home, South Waterford, Maine, will return to their home on Chestnut avenue early in October. During the summer they have had as their guests Mrs. Ayers Swazey, Miss Florence Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Connell, of Narberth; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark, of Cynwyd; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Goodall, of Narberth, and Mr. William Swazey.

Mr. Allan Claghorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Claghorn, of Chestnut avenue, is returning to Ursinus College this week.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Harold Austin, of Nitsau, Merion, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, John Brander Austin, 3d, on Monday, September 19. Mrs. Austin will be remembered as Miss Thelma F. Wood, daughter of Mrs. Henry Wood, of The Belgrave.

Mr. George Trimble, Jr., of Montgomery avenue, left recently for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

BUSINESS BITS

Miss Elizabeth Durbin has opened an art needlework and gift shop at her home, 231 N. Narberth avenue, offering free instruction in and materials for knitting, crocheting and hook rug making. She is taking orders for knitted suits, rugs and other finished work.

Another new advertiser in "Our Town" this week is Miss Olive B. McLaughlin, of 209 Elm Terrace, who teaches piano, voice, theory and harmony of music.

At 724 N. 64th street, Philadelphia, Miss Ethel F. Jones, who has a B.S. in Musical Education, offers to give piano instruction in the home or at her studio.

Back in "Our Town's" ad columns this week is John Drizin, 1108 S. 47th street, Philadelphia, whose shoe shop was for years until recently next door to the Narberth Theatre. He offers to pass on a saving in overhead expense to Main Line shoe-wearers, with his Edwards' shoes for children, and Bostonians for men and boys, fitted to the feet as well and nearly as promptly as was possible in his store. He is also continuing his repair service.

Chester P. Cook's vacant store between the Majestic Electric Shop and the barber shop has been nicely repainted and repaired, and the other stores and offices in the group near Narberth avenue have also been touched up. Further improvement of the business section's appearance came last week at Ricklin's and Freeman's corner, opposite the Narberth National Bank, where the wide setback on Essex avenue was paved.

Educators, Writers Head List of 172 From Main Line Among "Who's Who" Personages

"Who's Who in America," the U. S. A.'s directory of great and near great of more than transitory fame, in its 1932-33 edition, just issued, lists 172 Main Line residents, or one to every 500 inhabitants. This average, however, is about ten times that of the country as a whole. A total of 30,545 sketches are included in the new volume.

Locally, Haverford and Bryn Mawr head the class as residences for important personages, due to the situation of the two colleges bearing those names. "Who's Who" lists 38 from Haverford and 37 from Bryn Mawr, nearly as many names as will be found in the book from the other 15 communities in this territory.

On the basis of occupations, educators lead with a total of 24, not including nearly as many more whose vocations in the sciences might bring them within this group. Second are the writers including editors, authors and newspaper men. In this group there are 22 listings.

Incidentally, "Who's Who" does not look kindly on heroes of the diamond or arena, crooners or jazz kings, but extends a cordial welcome to politicians, stage and screen actors and concert musicians.

STAMP COLLECTORS

Movement on Foot to Organize Main Line Group of Philatelists

A movement was gotten under way this week to associate the many stamp collectors of the Main Line into some sort of club. A group of philatelists from several towns have discussed the possibility of a Main Line stamp club for adults and juniors.

A brief survey disclosed the fact that the section boasts a number of valuable collections and a large group of enthusiasts. Meetings for the purpose of discussion and exchange would follow the formation of a club, which would also be able to sponsor exhibitions if sufficient interest were shown.

Stamp collectors are invited to drop a postal to the office of this paper, and they will be notified of plans as they mature.

Week of Prayer is Set for October 2-8

Narberth Presbyterian Church to Meet Today's Spiritual Needs

The week of October 2-8 has been designated as a week of penitence and prayer in the Narberth Presbyterian Church. The program will be undertaken in response to the urgent call sent out by the leaders of the Presbyterian and other Evangelical churches as a nation-wide movement. People of every denomination are invited to share in the spiritual help which is expected. The meetings, to be announced, will provide in these times of economic distress.

In preparation for the meetings, which will be held every day except Saturday during the week of October 2nd, the regular Wednesday prayer meeting September 21st was devoted to a discussion of ways and means to make these meetings most beneficial and effective. On September 23rd there will be held at four different locations in Narberth prayer meetings in further preparation for the coming week of penitence and prayer.

In issuing the national call for these meetings which are planned to be so helpful to the great mass of God's people who are today beset with difficulties, the committee say, in part:

"There is on every hand physical and mental suffering. This condition has long continued and no one can point the way to escape. Our best men are powerless before the devastating effects of commercial distrust and moral confusion. While we long for the return of prosperity, we pray rather for the correction of those causes of distress without which prosperity may prove to be other than a blessing.

"On every hand thoughtful Christians feel that the root of our trouble is moral and spiritual. All laws are moral laws, and while we cannot trace their working, of one thing we are sure, that out of the past has come the present. We reap what we sow.

"The Church dares not stand aside and whisper 'peace' either to itself or to the Nation when there is no peace. Only a national turning to God in repentance and moral restitution, seeking his divine forgiveness, will restore the spiritual health of our people. The times are giving us moral discipline. God waits on man's response. No social or political revival can come out of spiritual destitution and no national awakening can arise out of religious indifference. The only adequate way is the way of Christ and the Cross.

"We therefore call upon our people to give themselves, personally and corporately, in penitence and prayer to Almighty God."

It is hoped that the people of Narberth will respond to this call and set aside the week beginning October 2nd for a re-dedication to the will of the Almighty. Everyone is invited to attend all of the meetings, which will be held every night except Saturday at the Narberth Presbyterian Church.

In anticipation that the infantile paralysis quarantine will be lifted, preparations are being made for Rally Day in all departments of the Presbyterian Church Sunday School on October 2nd. In the event of the ban on public meetings for young people remaining in force, further announcement will be made.

Cynwyd Man's Will Gives Bequest to Unborn Child

An unborn child, three other children and his wife share in the estate of Joseph C. Reilly, late of Cynwyd, according to his will filed this week for probate at Norristown. He left an estate of $950, named his wife principal heir and executrix, and wrote in his testament:

"I have in mind the unborn child of my wife, Gertrude, and bequeath to that child that portion of my estate which my wife shall see fit to give to such child."

Give Thanks

To the Editor of "Our Town":

May I use "Our Town" to express real appreciation of the fine patronage which was accorded the ball game last week for the benefit of the Narberth Coal Fund. The receipts were beyond expectations and everybody who helped is hereby accorded a sincere and hearty "thank you."

The need this winter will be very great, even if conditions improve, and further contributions to the fund will be decidedly welcome.

FRED WALZER.

Egyptian Theatre Notes

"Man From Yesterday," rather interesting drama, brings Clive Brook and Claudette Colbert to the Egyptian this week-end. Accompanying program includes a Charlie Chase comedy.

"Merrily We Go To Hell" is sophisticated and smooth enough to be different at Cynwyd next Monday and Tuesday. Sylvia Sidney and Frederic March give a likable performance of this tale of a couple who marry, separate and then get reconciled.

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell represent a different type of married couple, whose first year is what you would expect of America's most popular screen lovers. "The First Year" will visit Cynwyd next Wednesday and Thursday. Well worth seeing by the whole family.

Well praised for its human quality is "Lady and Gent," in which George Bancroft, Wynne Gibson and Jimmie Gleason will give laughs and excitement at the Egyptian next week-end.
